

Brief Profile of:
Ing. Okeke John Financial Secretary
Peace Advocates and Practitioners Organisation Nigeria European
Headquarters Austria (PAPONEHA)

Ing. Okeke John is a passionate and dedicated individual with a diverse educational background and extensive professional experience in civil engineering. He began his academic journey in Nigeria at the Federal University of Technology Owerri before relocating to Austria to further his studies.

In Vienna, he attended the College for Professionals for Civil Engineering, specializing in Structural Engineering at the Higher Technical Federal Teaching and Research Institute. Additionally, he pursued studies in Construction Management at the FH Campus in Vienna. With his additional certifications and training in construction management, structural engineering, and computer skills, he has honed his expertise in the field over the years.

Throughout his career, Ing. Okeke John has worked as a design engineer in steel construction, structural and civil engineering, where he has been responsible for creating design plans, submission plans, execution plans, and detailed plans. His attention to detail and technical skills have made him an invaluable member of the civil engineering offices he has worked for.

In addition to his professional experience, he has also taken on leadership roles in various organizations, serving as a Secretary, Financial Secretary, and co-founder of a peace organization. He has also served as an auditor in different organizations, showcasing his commitment to promoting transparency and accountability in his work.

Ing. Okeke John's interest in peace and conflict matters stems from his belief in the importance of fostering harmony and understanding in society. With his background in leadership and his passion for promoting peace, he is well-equipped to contribute meaningfully to the goals and objectives of the peace organization he is a part of.

As a member of the peace organization, Ing. Okeke John is dedicated to utilizing his skills in scheduling, material ordering, work organization, and communication to assist in the realization of peace. His role in the organization allows him to leverage his experience and expertise to support initiatives that promote conflict resolution, unity, and cooperation.

Looking to the future, Ing. Okeke John is committed to working diligently towards the realization of the organization's aims and objectives. By utilizing his leadership skills, professional experience, and passion for peace, he is determined to contribute positively to the achievement of lasting peace in the community and beyond.